

“On the Fly” Random Contact Spread

Those seeking romance often ask about the likelihood of randomly meeting someone special during an upcoming trip, party, night on the town or other gathering of peers. This spread is intended to be used in advance of such an event to examine the prospects. The “Contact Pair” is read for compatibility of the two cards that land there, one from the Querent's Path and one from the Other's path. Strongly agreeable cards bode well, and suggest that a meaningful connection may form; mutually adverse or neutral cards show nothing fortuitous happening. The cards before show the readiness of each party for such a contact, and the cards after the “fallout” from any such meeting. Good cards on both sides imply a follow-up date, bad cards on either side suggest a “wash-out.” (In the second case, of course, the next question asked of the reader will be “Why didn't 'X' text or call me?”)